DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-24 are allowed over the prior art of record.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Applicant has claimed uniquely distinct features in the instant invention which are not found in the prior art either singularly or in combination a computer-implemented method of performing operations on a plurality of linked records, the method comprising (a) determining at least two selected records from an end user in response to user selection of at least two of a plurality of node display elements, wherein each node display element is associated with one of the plurality of linked records, and wherein at least a pair of node display elements are respectively associated with a pair of records that are linked to one another, the pair of node display elements graphically linked with one another; and (b) performing a common operation on the selected records. These features are not found or suggested in the prior art.

The present invention is directed to determining at least two selected records from an end user in response to user selection of at least two of a plurality of node display elements, wherein each node display element is associated with one of the plurality of linked records, and wherein at least a pair of node display elements are respectively associated with a pair of records that are linked to one another, the pair of node display elements graphically linked with one another; and performing a common operation on the selected records. Each independent claim is identified “wherein at least a pair of node display elements are respectively associated with a pair of records that are linked to one another, the pair of node display elements graphically linked with one another; and performing a common operation on the selected records”.
